Pokemon Go has blasted off to the top most downloaded aww on the appstore,but although it is incredibly fun to play it can cause serious harm to players.According to documents A,B, and D it proves that Pokemon Go can put players into risks that may cause them to get injured or seriously hurt, the information that Pokemon Go needs to allow you to play can get you into serious problems if it gets into the wrong hands,and players are not respecting where they play Pokemon Go in.

First, Pokemon Go players should stop playing Pokemon Go because it can lead the into lots of danger. In order to catch pokemon you have to walk around the real world. According to documents A and D it shows that it can lead players into danger. Evidence for this can be found on document A where it states " Players could discover Pokemon in remote places, like a forested area of town." This proves that while players are off catching pokemon they can get lost and end up in a deserted part of town. Another piece of textual evidence that proves Pokemon Go can put players into danger is found in document D where it states "News reports say that users have tripped,fallen into a lake,crashed a car, and sustained other injuries while playing." This is crazy because people could have died if they fell into a lake or crashed a car.All for what? Just for a video game? If you ask me I am not risking my life just for a video game.

Next, players should stop playing Pokemon Go because the information Niantic needs to allow you to play Pokemon Go can be very serious if it is in the wrong hands. Evidence for this is found in document B where it states "Pokemon Go uses your phone's location, your IP address, and the webpage you mostly recently visited before playing, all connected with your real name and account information." Now this terrifies me because if a robber gets this information he will know your real name, where you are at all times, and your IP address.

Last, people should stop playing Pokemon Go because players are not respecting where they play. You can play Pokemon Go anywhere in the world as long as you have internet connection, because of this people are playing Pokemon Go in places they shouldn't be playing. Evidence for this can be found in document D where it states "Players are failing to respect their surroundings." This means players are not respecting where they play. Another piece of textual evidence for this can be found in document D where it states " Out of respect for all those interred at Arlington National Cemetery,we required the highest level of deorum from our guest and visitors.Playing games such as Pokemon Go on these hallowed grounds would not be deemed appropriate." Players were playing Pokemon in places like cemeteries instead of paying their respects. They were looking for pokemon walking around on dead people while people are actually there to visit a loved one.

   Some people might argue that Pokemon Go helps you stay active and exercise therefore we should keep playing it. But there are many other ways to stay active and exercise without the risks of getting hurt,having your private information off by someone random, and respecting your surroundings. This is why we should stop playing Pokemon Go.

My score for this was a 4 and a 4
